

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The attendance in Kentucky Sunday Schools Sunday exceeded 1,000,000.

A canal under the mountain from Marsailles, France, to the river Rhone, has been formally opened.

In another scrap with bandits May 5, Americans killed 42 Mexicans and sustained no losses.

Kentucky's road laws were further fortified yesterday by the Court of Appeals, which upheld the $300,000 bond issue voted in Pulaski county.

The steamship Venezia, that reached New York Sunday, reported that a sea raider chased her near Azores and fired upon her. She had 40 Americans aboard.

President Juan Jimenez, of Santo Domingo, has resigned to avoid armed intervention by the United States. Why not pursue the same tactics to stop the fighting in Mexico?

One of the soldiers killed in the last Mexican raid was a Kentucky boy, Hudson Rogers, of Danville, aged 17. His cousin, Winfield Mills, died at Columbus, N. M., ten days ago, also a soldier.

Former Governor Martin H. Glynn, of New York, for temporary chairman, and Speaker Champ Clark, for permanent chairman, have been selected for the Democratic convention at St. Louis next month.

Editorial comment from the press of the United States shows that, with the exception of the German-American press and a few other papers, the German reply to the American note is regarded as unsatisfactory in its concessions and sneering in its tone.

President Wilson has refused to withdraw the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis for Supreme Court Justice, and will press for early confirmation. Few men have ever been subjected to such opposition as Brandeis. The defeat of his confirmation will be a triumph for "the interests."

The storm of protest raised all over the world against the summary execution of Irish rebels, has called a halt after the slaughter of nine of the leaders. Many others given death sentences, including Countess Markievicz, have had their sentences commuted to imprisonment for terms ranging from three years to life. The number of civilians killed during the fighting was 160 so far as known and 32 soldiers were reported as killed.

Eight of the leaders of the Irish rebellion have been executed and the folly of Pearce's attempt to start trouble with a few hundred men is now apparent to all. About all that was accomplished was the destruction of $10,000,000 of private property in Dublin. This of itself made the uprising unpopular at home. There are 150,000 Irish soldiers in the trenches and it is reported that when the Germans displayed a sign inviting them to desert their trenches during the Dublin revolt, that the Irish band of its own accord struck up "Rule Britannia" as its answer.

A break in the diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany was postponed, if not averted, by the German reply to the American note in regard to the U-boat warfare. It was authoritatively stated in Washington Saturday that if the official text of the note bore out the assurance that the orders to submarine commanders had been revised so as to end the warfare against unarmed merchant vessels it undoubtedly would be accepted in good faith by Washington Government. The belief expressed in Washington is that if the reply is accepted as sufficient, no answer will be necessary, but the future conduct of Germany's undersea warfare will determine whether further action by the United States is necessary.—Courier-Journal.

BANDITS RAID TEXAS TOWN

Seventy Villa Outlaws Swept Down on Glenn Springs, 15 Miles Inland, Friday Night.

DEATH LIST MAY BE SEVEN

Three Troopers and a Boy Killed—One Soldier and Two Civilians Missing.

Alpine, Tex., May 8.—Villa bandits some seventy in number, forded the Rio Grande Friday night and sweeping fifteen miles inland on American soil, raided the little settlement of Glenn Springs and attacked a detachment of American cavalry, consisting of nine men of troop A, the Fourteenth cavalry.

Three troopers and a little 10-year-old boy were killed, two cavalymen were wounded and another is missing. He is believed to be a prisoner of the bandits, who are now fleeing southward in Coahuila, Mexico. Two American citizens, J. Deamer and a man named Compton, according to reports received here, were carried across the Rio Grande and reports have it, that their throats were cut. A posse of fifty citizens of Marathon last night were in pursuit of the Villistas.

LIEUT. NORTON REPORTS RAID.

San Antonio, Tex., May 8.—Three soldiers, Cohen, Coloe, and Rogers and one civilian, the young son of a man named Compton, were killed in the bandit raid on Glenn Springs, according to official reports to Fort Sam Houston from Lieut. C. R. Norton, Fourteenth cavalry, at Alpine. Two soldiers and two civilians whose names were given as Compton and Govern have been missing since the fight.

HALT TO PARLEY.

El Paso, Tex., May 8.—News of another raid on American territory by Mexicans caused sudden renewed military activity along the border and resulted in the conference over the co-operation of American soldiers in Mexico, which had been expected to reach a culmination today, coming to a sudden halt.

Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston ordered four troops of cavalry to proceed to the raided section to reinforce small detachments already on their way to the scene from Presidio, Alpine and other points. It is said that if the case demands such action they will cross the border to run down and disperse the bandits.

Gens. Scott and Funston met Gen. Obregon and Juan Amador, Mexican sub-secretary of foreign affairs, in the immigration station at the American end of the international bridge shortly after 11 o'clock this morning for what had been expected to be their final conference. It developed later, however, that the only matter discussed was the bandit raid at Glenn Springs.

What was said at the meeting was not divulged. Immediately afterward Gen. Obregon and Secretary Amador hurried to Juarez where they entered Gen. Obregon's private car and began a conference which lasted three hours.

Gen. Gavira, commander of the Juarez garrison, Gen. Santos and Andres Garcia, Mexican consul in El Paso, took part in this discussion.

Tonight Gen. Obregon was in telegraphic communication with Gen. Venustiano Carranza and it was understood he was acquainting the first chief with the new developments and suggesting action that would have to be taken.

The invasion of American territory by Mexicans at Alpine was about 125 miles east of El Paso and from territory Carranza claims to be in control of. Another "hot trail" having been found, all talk of withdrawal may as well be stopped.

Eugene Wilson Shoots Lee Humphries At Cadiz Saturday.

ALEINATION SUIT IS FILED

Tragedy Follows When Men Meet On Main Street.

Cadiz, Ky., May 8.—Eugene Wilson shot and instantly killed Lee Humphries on Main street here at 4 o'clock Saturday p. m. The shooting was without prelude in the way of words, it is alleged, Wilson stepping up to Humphries and began firing. The tragedy occurred just outside McCarty's drug store. Following the first shot Humphries, who is said to have been unarmed, ran into the store. Wilson fired twice more after Humphries got inside. All the bullets went true and Humphries fell dead on the floor. He fell between William Dunn and Dug Crute, who narrowly escaped being shot. Wilson was arrested.

There had been trouble of long standing between the men. A few weeks ago Wilson filed suit for $5,000 as damages against Humphries, charging the latter with having alienated his wife's affections.

Humphries was an influential farmer and unmarried.

Wilson was arrested before the third report of his pistol had died out. Deputy Sheriff Charley Humphries, a distant relative of the dead man, was next door to the drug store and he ran out and seized Wilson. The latter submitted quietly and was immediately taken to jail.

He has made no statement regarding the affair. The shooting, taking place in the heart of the business section, just across the street from the courthouse, created an intense excitement.

Public sentiment seems to lean to Humphries, than whom there was no more popular or highly respected citizen of the county. He is survived by his brother, George Humphries, and an unmarried sister, with whom he made his home.

LOUISVILLE RELATIVE

He was also an uncle of Adrian C. Humphries, prominent young attorney of Louisville. It is said that for the past three or four months Mrs. Wilson and her three or four children have been making their home with her mother, a widow, who lives near this place. Neither Wilson nor Humphries had ever been involved in any serious trouble before. Humphries was a member of the Woodmen of the World Lodge, and the funeral services, which took place at the Humphries family burying ground Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, were conducted by the Cadiz Lodge of that order.

MOVEMENT FOR MUSIC

In Public Schools to be Discussed By Miss Bourgard.

An effort is being made by the musical interests of Hopkinsville, to have the systematic study of music made a part of the work in all grades of the public schools and to this end they have invited Miss Caroline Bourgard, Supervisor of Music in the Louisville Public Schools, to visit Hopkinsville and tell of the methods adopted by the progressive cities of the country.

Miss Bourgard will come to Hopkinsville on Wednesday and will on Thursday morning go before the second and third grades of the schools and give demonstrations in ear training and sight reading. Thursday night she will talk at the First Christian church, explaining the methods adopted in Louisville and by many other up-to-date cities. She will tell just how music is taught to little tots and give the steps of advancement as children go from grade to grade. Miss Bourgard is thoroughly familiar with her work and the talk she will make Thursday night will be of much interest to the patrons of the schools.

Where music has been a study in other cities it has been invaluable to many noted singers who without hesitation say they attribute their success to the beginning made in the lower grades of the public schools.

The talk by Miss Bourgard at the Christian church is for the purpose of informing school patrons of the good results to be attained and to interest all citizens who have the schools at heart in the movement to have the Board of Trustees consider the employment of a Supervisor of Music.

In addition to the talk to be made by Miss Bourgard a program will be rendered by the High School Orchestra and an opportunity will be had to hear this organization in one of the best efforts made this season.

SMITH OPENED COURT.

Circuit Court opened in Eddyville Monday under disadvantages. No judge was present, but Commonwealth's Attorney Smith opened court and empaneled the grand and petit juries and in the afternoon called a meeting of the bar and elected Hon. E. H. James to preside that day. Judge W. M. Reed of Paducah arrived Tuesday.

Learning to Walk.

Bernard Fels, of St. Louis, who suffered a broken neck in a fall three months ago, is learning to walk again. He is permitted to take one or two steps each day now, but if his condition continues to improve, as there is every indication it will, he will be allowed to make longer walks on crutches.

Pembroke Spreads Herself And Gets More Than 1,000.

Sunday, proclaimed "Sunday School rally day," was a great success in Hopkinsville and Christian county.

The attendance in the city was close to 3,000 and in Pembroke it exceeded 1,000. Fifteen county churches reported added about 900 more. The greatest success was at the Christian church in this city, where the total was 1,009. The contest in Judge C. H. Bush's Bible class between the Blues and Reds brought in 588 to that class alone. The contest closed with the Blues victorious by 600 points.

Two or three colored churches in Hopkinsville did not report. These will run the city total to more than 3,000.

NEW OFFENSIVE BEFORE VERDUN

Germans Launch Great Attack and French Admit Gains in Two Places.

RUSSIAN TRANSPORT LOST

Claims by Germans of Sinking British Submarine is Denied by London.

Paris, May 8.—In fierce attacks on both banks of the Meuse today, the German forces gained ground from the French. They entered the French communicating trenches east of Hill 304 and gained a footing in the first French line between Haudomont wood and Fort Dourmont, over an extent of nearly a third of a mile.

London, May 8.—What seemingly is a new great offensive with its objective the capture of Verdun, has been launched by the Germans northeast and northwest of the fortress. In both sectors gains for the Germans are chronicled in the latest French official communication.

Except near Hill 304, however, the entire attack, which was thrown against the sector between Hill 304 and Le Mort Homme, was repulsed with serious losses to the Germans. A similar fate befell the attacking forces in the northeast, except in the region of the Haudomont wood. Both attacks were delivered after heavy preparatory bombardments.

Aside from these attacks only bombardments have been in progress on the line in France and Belgium. The artillery action has been extremely heavy in the Woevre and at the foot of the Meuse hills, in the region east of Verdun.

Russian torpedo boats have ineffectually shelled German positions on the northeast coast of Courland, according to Berlin. In Galicia, along the lower Stripa river, the Russians have made a further advance against the Teutons, while in the Caucasus region Turkish attacks in the Black sea littoral were repulsed. The Turks, who had been contesting the advance of the Russians toward Bagdad in the Serrinkerd region, have retreated hastily after having sustained heavy losses, leaving behind them their tents and war material.

Small infantry encounters at various points along the Austro-Italian front, in which what advantage there was rested with the Italians, have served to vary the usual fighting with the big guns.

The sinking of an allied transport in the Mediterranean late in April with the loss of nearly all 600 Russian troops who were on board is reported in advices from Corfu, says the Overseas News agency.

The transport was sunk by striking a mine about the time the battleship Russell met a similar fate, the advices state.

The news agency says only a few were rescued. The bodies recovered were buried by the British at Malta. The British official communication admits the loss of two naval aeroplanes, but denies the German claim of the sinking of submarine E-3, which is declared to have returned safely to its base.

Daniel Dawdy, 77 years old, and Mrs. Elizabeth Flehner, 72, were married at Findlay, Ill., Thursday. It was the third wedding of each.

Germany lost three Zeppelins in two days last week. On Wednesday one was wrecked off the coast of Norway and on Friday one was shot down in the North Sea by a cruiser and another in a raid on Saloniki.

Germany claims that 26 aeroplanes were shot down by German aviators on the western front in April, according to official figures. The German losses last month, it is claimed, amounted to twenty-two aeroplanes.

If England had fought the Turks like she fought the Irish, perhaps the Sick Man would not have given John Bull two lickings in one year. The British have officers capable of doing effective work with a small force, but are not able to handle great armies. Grand Duke Nicholas and Gen. Joffre are the hope of the allies.

William Lorimer acquitted in the Illinois court of charges of embezzlement and conspiracy in connection with the failure of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank of which he was president, has another ordeal in court to undergo. United States District Attorney Clyne says that he has begun to prepare the federal court case against Lorimer and probably would bring it to trial next autumn. In this case Lorimer is charged with misappropriating funds of the La Salle Street National bank, predecessor of the La Salle Trust and Savings bank. Lorimer says he expects to pay the poor depositions who lost by the failure of his bank within a year and then begin his fight for the return to the United States senate.

Two specimens of a strange creature called the tustera have been received at the Pittsburgh Carnegie museum. It has three eyes, skin like an alligator, and a row of teeth down the middle of its back. What is it? Dr. W. J. Holland, director of the museum, said concerning the specimens: "These reptiles flourished in the Jurassic period, 15,000,000 years ago. The tustera has come down all the way from that distant past with practically no anatomical change. As a link connecting the present with a past in which the existence of such a creature as man was not even faintly suggested, these survivors of the Jurassic age claim attention, and their study throws a light upon the structure of a great host of creatures which long since vanished from our globe." They were found in New Zealand.

The Way It Goes.
"A man lives three lives—youth, manhood and age," philosophically stated Professor Pate. "Youth is the rising sun of life, when he thinks of what a heck of a feller he is going to be; manhood is the sun at full meridian, when he is satisfied that he is indeed a heck of a feller; age is the setting sun, when he sags around and hags about what a heck of a feller he used to be."—Judge.

Plants Must Have Light.
The blossoms of many plants open or close with the coming or the departure of daylight, and all vegetable growths quickly lose their color, if not their lives, if deprived of light. The sensitive plant is a popular example of "nerves." A tap on its stem is sufficient to cause it instantly to wilt, the leaves falling limp as if withered. Concerning the remarkable sensitiveness of plants to light Professor Ganong says: "Evidently some such structures advance pretty far in the direction of the special sense organs of animals, such as eyes."

DRAINAGE FOR A FARM

Important Factors to Be Considered in Deciding on Plan.

Tile Drains Usually Give Thorough Drainage and Do Not Interfere With Farming Operations—Depth and Distance to Lay.

In planning a system of drainage for the farm it is necessary to determine first whether open ditches or covered tile drains are to be constructed. Open ditches are generally used when large quantities of surface water are to be removed or where land and labor are cheap. The disadvantages of open ditches include the large amount of land they occupy, their interference with farming operations, and the high cost of keeping the ditches clean and the banks free from weeds. The drains usually give more thorough drainage. They occupy no land surface and do not interfere with farming operations. If properly constructed they are practically permanent and require almost no expenditure for maintenance.

The farmer must decide the amount of money he can invest for drainage. Usually it will be best to start with that part of the farm where the profits from drainage will be greatest and to extend the system as more funds are available. This plan of doing a part at a time has the advantage of permitting the farmer to observe the results obtained and in the following work to make any improvements that may be found expedient in the plan. It also permits the farmer to estimate closely whether it will be profitable to invest the money necessary for completing the drainage system.

On rolling lands where only occasional wet spots are to be drained the random system (Fig. 1) is commonly used. On level lands needing artificial drainage a uniform system (Figs. 2 and 3) must be planned that will provide drains for the entire area. The most economical arrangement of such a system is one which permits the use of long laterals and requires the shortest total length of main drains.

No hard and fast rule can be given for determining the sizes of tile to be used. Drains should be large enough to remove the surplus water before the crops are injured, even after a heavy rainfall in continued wet weather. It is better to use sizes too large than too small and no tile less than four inches inside diameter should be used. In the middle West the tendency is to use nothing smaller than five-inch tile. The mains should be large enough to take the flow from the laterals. Actual practice has shown that for the dark silt loams of Illinois and Iowa, where the average annual rainfall is approximately 36 inches, 8-inch tile having a fall of 2 inches in 100 feet will provide outlet drainage for 40 acres, 7-inch tile for 30 acres, 6-inch tile for 20 acres, 5-inch tile for ten acres, and 4-inch tile for six acres. On stiff soils with equal rainfall the same sized outlets will be adequate, but on the level soils of the South Atlantic and Gulf states where the annual rainfall is approximately 50 inches, only about one-half the areas named above can be drained with tile of these sizes.

The proper depth for the drains depends upon the soil and varies from 2 to 4 feet. In heavy silt loams and clays the depth should be from 2 to 3 feet. In more open soils it should be greater. The best distance between laterals when common farm by much the same conditions that determine the proper depth. In close retentive soils where the drains are placed from 2 to 3 feet deep the laterals should be placed from 30 to 50 feet apart. In open soils that give up water readily and where the drains are 3 to 4 feet deep, the laterals may be from 50 to 150 feet apart. In very porous soils the spacing may be even greater. According to the opinion of experts in the office of rural engineering of the United States agricultural department, where the land is used for truck or other special crops, the depth and spacing should be arranged to give the amount of drainage desired. In some muck lands with peaty subsoils it seems that drains may be placed too deep to give the best results with certain crops.

Unless a farmer has had considerable experience in drainage work and knows how to run accurate levels it will usually be advisable for him to employ someone who has had this kind of experience to assist in planning and laying out the drainage system. Tile should have a fall of not less than one inch to 100 feet if possible and greater fall than this is very desirable. Where little fall can be obtained, particular care must be taken to secure a true grade and alignment for the drain. If the land is level, the drain must be started deep at the outlet in order to get the fall. If the ground surface is level for 1,000 feet, a 2-inch fall to 100 feet can be obtained by starting the drain five feet deep at the outlet and running to three feet four inches deep at the upper end.—United States Department of Agriculture.

HAS DISTINCT FLAVOR

CAULIFLOWER ONE OF THE BEST OF VEGETABLES.

Careful Preparation Needed to Bring Out Its Really Fine Qualities in Some Dishes That Have Indorsement of Experts.

Cauliflower has a distinctive flavor, suggesting cabbage somewhat, but more delicate. Whatever the method of preparing it for the table, care should be taken to preserve and develop its flavor and to keep the creamy white color which is so attractive. This means that it must be cooked just long enough to insure tenderness and no longer. If overcooked, the white portion turns dark and the flavor becomes strong and finally rank. Some persons insist that overcooked cauliflower and overcooked cabbage may be the cause of digestive disturbance which is not noticed when these vegetables are properly cooked.

The following recipes are worth trying:

Boiled Cauliflower With Drawn Butter.—Place the cauliflower, head up, in boiling water to which salt has been added (one teaspoonful to a quart of water) and cook until just tender, which should require for a medium-sized cauliflower about one-half hour. Then remove whole to a hot dish and serve with melted butter. Sometimes the head is wrapped in cheesecloth before being cooked to make sure that the delicate flowerets are not broken off. If the leaf stalks are cooked with the head, serve in such a way that each person receives a portion of both head and leaf.

Creamed Cauliflower.—The cauliflower cooked as above may be served with a cream sauce, and the dish looks particularly well when the head is left whole and the sauce is poured over it. If more convenient, however, it may be broken up into small portions, which should be arranged neatly in the dish and then covered with the sauce.

Cream Sauce.—This kind of sauce (so often served with vegetables) should be made rather thick for cauliflower, as follows: One cupful milk, two tablespoonfuls butter, two tablespoonfuls flour, one-half teaspoonful salt and one-fourth teaspoonful pepper. Heat the milk over boiling water; heat the butter and flour to a cream and stir into the hot milk. Cook five minutes, then add salt and pepper.

In this and the other dishes referred to salt and pepper can be added as desired.

Cauliflower Baked With Cheese (Cauliflower au Gratin).—Break into pieces a well-drained head of plain hulled cauliflower and fill a dish with layers (two or at most three) of cauliflower lightly sprinkled with grated cheese. Pour over all a cupful of cream sauce; sprinkle the top with huttered bread crumbs, and, if a decided cheese flavor is liked, with a little grated cheese also. Bake in a moderately hot oven until the top is a delicate brown.

Cream of Cauliflower Soup.—Cream soups can be made by adding the pulp of a vegetable (enough to insure good flavor) to a thin cream sauce. A good proportion is one cupful of vegetable pulp (in this case cauliflower broken into very small pieces or put through a rather coarse sieve) to a quart of sauce.

Creamed Celery.
Celery two cupfuls, white sauce one cupful.

Method: Select the tender parts of the celery and serve as a relish. The tougher, undesirable parts, break into inch pieces and cook until tender in enough boiling salted water to cover (30 to 60 minutes). Make a white sauce by melting one tablespoonful of butter and adding one tablespoonful of flour and stirring until smooth, gradually pouring on the one-fourth cupful of milk and stirring until smooth. Add the cooking water.

Fruit Pudding.
Take one egg, beaten slightly; one-half cupful butter and lard mixed, one cupful milk, scant one-half teaspoonful cloves, allspice, cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger, one-half teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful soda, three cupfuls flour, one cupful seeded raisins, one-half cupful citron, one cupful walnut meats, ground.

Steam three and one-half hours. Serve with cream or wine or brandy sauce. This makes an excellent dessert and will keep a long time.

Creole Balls.
Add to one cupful of milk hutter the size of an egg and let it come to a boil. After the milk boils add three cupfuls light brown sugar, getting the mixture to the boiling point as quickly as possible to avoid curdling. Stir continually. When a soft ball will form in the water it is done. Remove from the stove and beat, add one teaspoonful vanilla, one cupful nut meats. When it creams form in small ball shapes or mounds.

Veal Balls.
Eight ounces of cold cooked veal, three ounces of bacon fried, two tablespoonfuls of cream, three ounces of grated roll, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, pepper and salt. Pass the meat and bacon twice through the mincing machine. Stir grated roll into cream, add egg, salt, pepper and parsley and lastly the meat, mixing all thoroughly. Form into balls the size of a nut, boil for five minutes in soup and serve hot.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

NUT TREES THRIVE IN NORTH

Hickory Is Most Popular and Is Found in Many States—Little Time and Labor Required.

There are very few sections of the northern states where the shellbark hickory and pecan trees cannot be grown. The hickory is more commonly found, and is a native of many states. The pecan is usually found along river or creek bottoms, but can be transplanted to any soil, sand or clay, with fair success.

The hickory does not stand transplanting so well as the pecan. Both can be grown from the nuts and the nut-grown trees give the best results, producing nuts younger and forming fine trees, as the growing in the open from the start adapts the tree to the location and there is no stunt from transplanting.

The pecan or shellbark when grown in the open produce wonderful crops of nuts. If grown on high land the trees will never be large for forest trees, but when grown on any low, rich, moist soil, the trees make rapid growth, soon growing into large fine shaped trees.

There is always some uncultivated spot on the farm where a few nut trees could be grown. It requires but little time and labor to plant them and within a few years the home will have a supply of fine sweet nuts, each year.

TO PREVENT WINTERKILLING

Alternate Freezing and Thawing Causes Plants to Die Out—Straw Mulch Is Recommended.

The object of mulching strawberries in the fall is to prevent winterkilling. Winterkilling is usually caused by the plants dying out too much during the winter months, or by alternate freezing and thawing.

The best mulch material to use is clean straw; this is placed on the plants 4 to 6 inches deep after the ground has been frozen.

In the spring after the ground is thawed, the straw is worked around the plants, writes F. F. McCune in Farmers Mail and Breeze. This serves several purposes, such as keeping the patch free from weeds, conserving the moisture, and forming a clean mat for the berries to ripen on.

After the fruit has ripened, the straw should be removed.

PRUNING THE BERRY BUSHES

Blackberries and Raspberries May Be Trimmed Any Time After Leaves Have Fallen.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE)
The question is often asked as to the amount of pruning necessary for blackberry and raspberry bushes and when this should be done.

This pruning of raspberry and blackberry bushes may be done at any time after the leaves have fallen. If I could have my choice as to the date I would do the pruning at the close of the winter. But those who have large plantations are obliged to do the pruning when they have leisure time.

therefore to such people I recommend pruning any time during winter.

Where the winters are severe, the plants are bent down and each bush held down closely to the ground for protection. I would not recommend pruning these bushes thus protected until the winter is past, and the buds are beginning to start growth.

EASY WAY OF PROPAGATING

Cut Shoots of New Growth of Currant Bushes Soon as Leaves Fall—Soil Should Be Sandy.

(By S. G. COOKE, Connecticut Experiment Station.)

As soon as the leaves of the currant bushes fall cut the shoots of new growth into lengths four or five inches long; hunch as you do asparagus, and tie firmly and place in a trench with the small ends down; cover about one inch deep, and the soil should be quite sandy, if possible.

Just before cold weather turn them over and let them remain until spring, when the cuttings will be in fine shape for planting out.

Prune Trees Gradually. Never prune young trees heavily in any one year, but do the work gradually from season to season.

LIME IS NEEDED BY GARDEN

Should be Hauled During Winter, Spread Over Plowed Land in Spring and Harrowed In.

Most gardens need lime. A dressing of 1,000 pounds of ground limestone or 20 bushels of burned lime, after it is air-slacked, will be the right quantity for one acre. The lime should be hauled during the winter and spread over the plowed ground in the spring and well harrowed in, says a writer in Baltimore American.

Crimson clover, or rye plowed down when half grown and the soil given a dressing of lime well harrowed in, will rot up the green crop plowed under, sweeten the soil and take the place of stable manure. This system will kill cut and wire worms and cleanse the ground. This is the method followed by our truckers and gardeners, and it is found very satisfactory, as it saves time, labor and money in working the crops. It is a good plan to divide the land into three parts, one for vegetables, one for growing crops to be plowed under for green manure, and one for small fruits. Try this system; larger crops of vegetables may be grown at the least cost for labor, and the fertility of the land may be kept up with green manure and a judicious use of animal-bone fertilizers, drilled in with the seeds.

Hardly Worth Considering. "Would your wife vote for you as a candidate for office?" "I don't think there's any use of my bothering my head about that," replied Mr. Meekton. "I don't believe Henrietta would let me run in the first place."—Washington Star.

Madisonville, Ky., May 6.—Tom Woodward, who shot and killed Chas. Long and seriously wounded his son, Bayless Long, at Nortonville last Saturday, was exonerated today by the Hopkins county grand jury after a thorough investigation of the tragedy. Woodward, who is a son of Marshal Sam Woodward, of Nortonville, was deputized by his father to assist in arresting the Longs. The Longs had begun an attack on the Marshal, knocking him down with a club. One of them was in the act of striking him with a brick when Tom Woodward opened fire. Marshal Woodward was badly bruised in the fight. The grand jury's report was that young Woodward acted in defense of his father. Tom Woodward also shot and killed Roy Blanks several months ago in defense of his father.

Democratic Convention.

Another announcement has been made of the slate agreed upon for the coming Democratic convention and organization and the delegation to the National Convention. Gov. Stanley is to be temporary chairman of the convention, M. M. Logan permanent chairman and Congressman J. C. Cantrill campaign chairman. Circuit Judge C. A. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, is to be chairman of the State Committees and Gen. W. B. Halderman national committeeman. Oscar West is to be sergeant-at-arms of the Lexington convention. James, Beckham and Stanley are set down as certain to be delegates from the state at large with Camden and Buschmeyer suggested for the fourth place. Why not give the delegates a chance to elect one man? In which event Lieut. Gov. Black would doubtless be the choice of the convention.

SCIENCE IN HANDLING FRUIT

Grower May Secure High Prices for Product by Exercising Care in Sorting and Packing.

A great saving may be effected by the scientific handling of fruit of all kinds. In this case "science" means right knowledge and care. The fruit grower cannot always sell direct to the consumer, but he can, by sorting and carefully packing his product, get a much better price when selling to the retail dealer than he can if he follows the old-fashioned methods of dumping everything into boxes, baskets and barrels regardless of size and condition. The shrewd dealer will make the most of the bad condition of the stuff offered him, heating down the grower to the lowest possible price and then add to his profits by the work of a few boys in the basement who are instructed in the art of cleaning and repacking. The grower, himself, could get this added profit if he would only take a little more trouble in preparing his fruit for market.

Dumping Apples Into Barrels Without Sorting Gives Middleman Greater Profits, Because He Grades and Sorts.

Some associations of fruit and vegetable growers have adopted this plan, and made certain brands famous.

The fruit sold under these various brands is carefully selected and packed under the supervision of the manager employed by the growers, and packages are guaranteed to be up to standard in every way.

As most of the apples grown in this country are sent to market in barrels, it may be well to set down here some rules adopted by the best associations of fruit growers for the handling of the fruit.

In the first place the apples are taken from the trees and placed in baskets or bags slung around the shoulders of the pickers, and some very careful growers insist that the pickers wear gloves, in order that their fingernails may not cut the fruit. It is a well-known fact now that a tiny abrasion made by the fingernail will often admit harmful bacteria which will, in a short time, destroy the apple.

The apples are then brought to the packing tables, which are covered with canvas or burlap under which is a padding of moss or straw in order to prevent bruising. The greatest care is taken to prevent the apples from falling from the table, or against one another in a way to cause the slightest bruise. The fruit is rapidly sorted into their proper grade and the package—whatever the form of packing may be—labeled with the growers' name. A barrel properly packed can be shipped long distances without injury to the fruit.

All good apple growers now understand that apples keep better if they are allowed to ripen upon the trees and it is seldom that green fruit is picked. Of course always there is just the right day when the apples should be taken from the tree, and this can be learned only by close observation and experience.

MAKE SUCCESS IN ORCHARDS

Growers Should Note That Thorough Tillage Is Most Profitable Method of Soil Management.

(By DR. E. H. JENKINS, Director, Connecticut Experiment Station.)

Certain soil orchards under special conditions, such as heavy manure mulching, together with some pasturing to keep the grass down, give good results—perhaps as good as clean cultivation. But the skillful fruit grower can expect more than the law of averages will give. And even the general grower should note that thorough tillage is the most profitable method of soil management.

Easy As a Girl.

unmit, N. C.—In a letter received from this place, Mr. J. W. Churen, the notary public, says: "My wife has been ailing for nearly 12 years, in female ailments, and at times, was unable to leave the house. She suffered agony with her side and back. We tried physicians for years without relief. After these treatments all failed, she took Cardui, and gained in weight at once. Now she is red and rosy as a school girl." HOLDS STRENGTH IN RESERVE

Century Plant Conserves Energy to the Time When It Shall Bloom in Full Splendor.

For a mere plant, the century plant exhibits an unusual amount of good sense. Nature decreed that its blossoming process be fast and furious. So the plant spends a lifetime storing up reserve strength for the day when it puts forth its flowers. Sometimes it spends fifteen years getting ready for its flower season, sometimes longer. That's why we've named it the century plant.

Before it is ready to blossom, the century plant is a dense cluster of rigid, thick leaves, with a thorn on the tip of each leaf. It grows in Mexico and on the western desert. In Mexico it is extensively cultivated and is put to several uses.

An extract is made from the leaves and used for soap. When the plant is ready to blossom, the sap is taken from the stem and made into a drink, which the Mexicans call pulque. After the flower withers, the stem is cut into slices to form razor strops. Finally, the leaves produce fiber, which is made into thread and ropes.

Tricky.

A senator was talking about national preparedness.

"The man who would make political capital out of such an important question as preparedness," he said, "is as selfish and tricky as the chap in the station bar."

"A chap hustled into a station bar. He had only a minute or so to catch his train. But the bartender was busy, and the chap saw that he stood to lose out on being served."

"Two gentlemen, each with whisky and soda before him, were conversing pleasantly before the bar. Well, what does this chap do but reach over, grab one of the whiskies and toss it off."

"The owner started back."

"How dare you!" he spluttered.

"The idea! Why, that wasn't your whisky!"

"Wasn't it?" said the chap. "Then I guess this one must be mine, eh?"

"And he tossed off the other gentleman's drink and dashed out and caught his train just as it was moving off."

Reversion to Type.

An English traveler in Baluchistan had from a holy man in that country a story about Moses, which does not appear in the Scriptures, yet which has its pertinence to this matter of politicians proposing to do away with all the evils of the human lot.

The patriarch was sitting in his house very sad, and the Lord said to him: "Prophet Moses, why art thou cast down?"

"Alas!" said he, "I see so many people sorrowful. Some are unclothed, and some are hungry. I pray thee make all happy and contented."

The Lord promised it should be so. But soon Moses was again disconsolate, and once more the Lord asked the cause.

"Lord," cried the prophet, "the upper story of my house has fallen down, and nobody will come to mend it; they are all too busy enjoying themselves."

"But what am I to do?"

"Lord, make the people as they were before!"

How Fear Affects the Heart.

Fear does not mean cowardice or timidity; it means intelligence. It is not emotion in the strict sense of this term. Strong emotions paralyze fear, frequently the muscles, and in extreme cases the heart. In this latter condition we say the person "died from fright."

WHEREIN IS REAL ECONOMY

Going in Person to Buy for Household Bound to Save Money on the Weekly Bills.

Economy does not merely imply living more cheaply and thereby of necessity cutting down either the quality or quantity of food, or both. True economy lies in obtaining as good, or nearly as good, value for the lesser expenditure.

How many wives whose husbands are earning, say, between $1,000 and $1,500 a year, still think it beneath their dignity to do more than the most dainty of shopping? The habit of ordering at the door is an ingrained one, and to some minds smacks of superiority; but an examination of the extent to which higher prices have necessarily to be paid in this way would surprise a good many.

This only applies to the difference between the actual cash price paid at the shop and the price charged by the same tradesman who collects orders and delivers and very often has to allow a bill to be run up, to say nothing of the odd ounces frequently charged on the bill, which, in the pur-chaser's presence at the weighing, would have been found to be nonexistent.

This, however, is not the only saving which can be made as between personal shopping and giving orders at the door, says the New York Evening Telegram. A keen shopper, with ready cash available, will soon find a substantial difference between various shops supplying the same commodities within quite a small radius if the trouble is taken to ascertain prices. This means trouble, but looked at sensibly it results in the equivalent of earning money, for money saved is money earned in a distinct sense in housekeeping.

Moreover, when purchasing in person one can always insist upon getting the best article at the price, whereas if the goods are delivered after ordering at the door, if they are found to be not quite up to the mark, they are more than likely to be put up with, either through lack of time to send them back or indisposition to bother further.

BROUGHT SHARPER TO TIME

Procedure of Justice Probably Not Found in Blackstone, But It Was Decidedly Efficacious.

It was the early days of boat travel on the Ohio river when even passenger steamers stopped at landings on islands and mainlands for freight. We had made an island landing and a wealthy passenger had left the boat to buy cigars at the island's tiny store.
He bought $5 worth, and presented a $100 bill in payment, whereupon the storekeeper offered him $5 in change, asserting that he had received only $10. The customer returned to the boat and related his tale of woe to the captain, who at once went ashore and informed the storekeeper that unless the change was at once forthcoming he would hitch a cable around the store and drag it into the river.

The storekeeper still refused and the captain started for his boat. A cable was quickly passed around the little building, hitched to the vessel, and full steam ordered. When the shack tottered upon its foundation, the frightened storekeeper appeared,
the missing hills fluttering in his hand

Resourceful.

A southern lady who met with financial reverses recently moved to the country in order to economize. She engaged a little colored boy in the neighborhood to assist her at odd times about the house. Sam was so much pleased with his employment that he was anxious to become a permanent member of the little household.

"Mis' Alice," he began one day,
"don't you-all ever git skeered in dis big house, jus' by youself?"

"Why, yes, Sam," the lady admitted,
"it is lonely at times. I have thought of having someone about when my husband has to be away."

"Well," ventured Sam again, "I jus' thought you might like to know dat I's a candidate fo' de position ob protector in caso you should decide to employ someone."

"Why, Sam," asked the lady, laughing, "what could you do to help me if robbers happened to break in some dark night?"

Sam was puzzled for a moment, but presently he had an inspiration.
"Well, Mis' Alice," he said proudly,
"dah's one thing dat I could do in case you was visited by unwelcome intruders; I could light de lantern and show you-all which way to run!"

Giving Him No Chance.

Appropos of some rulings of the interstate commerce commission with regard to the conduct of the New Haven road, Howard Elliott, the head of the line, told a story recently.

"The average board of directors of the average railroad these times is in the same distressful fix as was the old negro who fell ill," said Mr. Elliott. "The attending physician warned the patient he must go to bed early every night and then prescribed a certain diet."

"When the doctor had gone the old man raised his voice in protest:
" 'How does dat white man 'spect me to eat chicken bress' once a day ef
I ain't got my evenin's free to go out and git de chicken?' "

ODD WAYS OF KEEPING TIME

Lonely Australians Have Many Methods by Which They Compute the Passing of the Hours.

On the immense sheep ranches in Australia each of the boundary riders has a district to look after, in which he has to keep the wire fences in repair and see that the sheep come to no harm. It is a hard, lonely life, in which the rider rarely sees another human being. Many of the men have strange ways of keeping count of the days.

One rider, who had lived for thirty years in the back country, used two jam tins and seven pebbles. One tin was marked "This Week" and the other
"Last Week." On Sunday morning he was accustomed to take a pebble out of "Last Week" and drop it into "This Week." This operation he repeated every morning until "This Week" had used up the seven. They were then returned to "Last Week," one each day; and the old fellow knew when another week had passed.

Another rider, named Eagan, tried several plans to keep count of the days, but always failed. At last he hit on a novel and attractive method. He made a big damper—the name the Australians give to a cake of flour and water with a seasoning of salt—on Sunday and marked it into seven parts. Each section was a day's allowance, and the slices that remained told him the number of days that must pass before Sunday came again.

For several weeks this method never failed him. Unfortunately, one Tuesday he fell in with a fellow rider who was very hungry. Eagan stinted himself, in order that the ravenous one might be satisfied with that day's section of the damper. But it was no use. The host saw the knife cut the boundary line and the hungry rider carve into the almanac. He could stand it no longer.

"Stop, now, stop!" he yelled, as he clutched the remains of the damper and glared at his visitor. "There," he continued, "you've eaten Tuesday and you've eaten Wednesday, and now you want to slice the best of the mornin' off Thursday! Not if I can stop it, sonny! I won't be knowing the day of the week!"—Youth's Companion.

Lions In Panama.

Both black and yellow lions are of the panther type, but with longer legs, shorter bodies and broader chests, says a Panama correspondent. They stand about thirty inches high. At bay they fight fiercely and no dog is a match for them because they combine great strength with catlike agility. Lions and wildcats are sometimes taken when cubs and brought up in the homes of the natives. Until the age of puberty they are as tame as housecats, but then they become very vicious.

Most disfiguring skin eruptions, scrofula, pimples, rashes, etc., are due to impure blood. Burdock Blood Bitters as a cleansing blood tonic, is well recommended. $1.00 at all

COAN GUILTY OF ARSON CHARGE

Aged Posey County Melon Grower Given Prison Sentence.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., May 8.—Isaac L. Coan was found guilty by a jury in the circuit court Thursday of burning the barns on the Herman Alldredge farm at Upton station on the night of Mar. 31. The jury was out about three hours. The jury fixed his age at 70 years. The penalty is from two to twenty-one years. His attorney, James H. Blackburn, will present a motion for a new trial. Coan was suspected of having burned the barns and bloodhounds were placed in the scene the following day and trailed to his home. The grand jury and state fire marshal investigated the case and an indictment was returned about ten days after the crime was committed. The evidence was circumstantial. Coan was a well known local character and was one of the largest melon growers in this section. His nickname was "Soda."

Weather For Week.

Washington, May 8.—The Weather Bureau's forecast for the week beginning May 7, shows:

"During the coming week temperatures above the seasonal average are indicated for the Middle Atlantic, South Atlantic and Gulf States, the Middle Plains States and the great central valleys.

An extensive area of low pressure that now covers the Northwestern Canadian provinces will advance slowly eastward, reaching the middle West by the middle of the week and the eastern States the latter part of the week. By the middle of the week local showers and thunderstorms are probable over the great central valleys and the Plains States.

THOMPSON HAS A LEG BROKEN

Aviator Well Known Here Has Narrow Escape From Death.

DeLloyd Thompson, the aviator who was here in July 1912 was severely injured by a fall in New York last Friday from a height of 600 feet. While on a flight for bomb-dropping practice, in one of the new National Guard machines, with H. W. Blakeley as his companion, he lost control of the machine, which dived head first to the ground. Both men were caught beneath the wreckage and were badly hurt. Thompson sustained a compound fracture of the right leg and numerous cuts and bruises.

While making a flight here four years ago Thompson lost control of the machine by reason of an accident to the rudder and was unable to descend for some time and finally landed after an experience he said was the closest call he ever had. Later in the same afternoon the machine was repaired and Thompson made several other flights, taking up passengers, among them the editor of the Kentuckian.

He is a cool-headed and fearless aviator and has a number of friends here who are glad that he has come out alive from his latest mishap.

Two Perfect Babies.

New York, May 8.—Two physically perfect babies, John Ryan, 8 months old, and Anna Hennessy, 19 months old, were found by physicians representing the Health Department, among 3,000 contestants entered here Saturday for a gold cup valued at $250 as a feature of the celebration of "baby week." The Ryan baby, it was decided, was entitled to the honor because of his bright smile and apparent happiness. The girl, although perfect, lost the cup because she cried while the physicians were trying to reach a decision. Eleven other babies also were awarded gold medals.

METHODIST UNION URGED BY REPORT

General Conference at Saratoga Asked to Appoint Commission.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 8.—Definite action intended to effect a union of the Methodist Episcopal churches in America was recommended in a report submitted to the general conference by Bishop Earl Cranston, for the commission on federation, to which the conference had referred the preliminary negotiations. The commission endorsed the proposal to unite the branches of the denomination, and requested the appointment of a commission authorized to conduct negotiations with the Methodist Episcopal church, South, the Methodist Protestant church and other kindred Wesleyan bodies. The commission would report, with recommendations to the general conference in 1920. That reluctance exists among the branches of Methodism to abandon their separate existence, was indicated in the report.

England's Last Chance.

The British failed pitifully at the Dardanelles. They have failed in the less important but very spectacular venture in Mesopotamia. The "Sick Man of Europe," the weakest member of the Teutonic alliance, has beaten and humbled the great British empire.

In each of these campaigns against Turkey the British almost succeeded. The battleships almost pounded their way through the Dardanelles—and stopped at the moment of triumph. The army, after the wonderful landing at Suvla Bay, almost cut across the Gallipoli peninsula—and were stopped only by their own fears and lack of supplies. The Tigris expedition almost took Bagdad—and was caught and captured. Every time a brilliant victory has been just missed, because of inexcusable bungling.

It seems incomprehensible that the British should have failed so signally in Mesopotamia. They failed because they did not send enough troops at first, and because they did not send enough reinforcements later. A handful of men struck at Bagdad, and then starved in a five-months' siege, while there were half a million British soldiers idle in Egypt.

Maybe this last humiliation will wake up the British lion. There are said to be 1,500,000 British soldiers in France. Lord Kitchener announced originally that "the war would start in May, 1915." So far as he is concerned, it hasn't started yet. England has done wonderfully on the sea, but has suffered disaster and disgrace on land.

Will it continue so to the close of the chapter, while France continues to reap the world's praise on the western front, and Russia crushes Turkey where England failed, and saves her ally by smashing the Germans and Austrians in the east?

England has this year yet to make good. If she fails, she is doomed as a world-power, in spite of her navy. —Owensboro Messenger.

Madisonville, Ky., May 8.—An indictment charging wilful murder has been returned by the grand jury against Claude Witty, the negro who shot and killed Ezra Samples in Cardwell's livery stable three weeks ago. Witty also shot and painfully wounded Elbert Samples, and the feeling was so bitter against the negro that he was taken to Hopkinsville for safe keeping. He will be brought back here for trial during the present term of circuit court.

A number of other indictments were returned.

WHAT IS THE MEXICAN?

There is Less African Blood in Mexico Than in U. S.

There are still numbers of Americans who are under the misapprehension that the Mexican is some kind of negro, or, at least, that there is a strong infusion of African blood, as in Haiti. Nothing could be further from the truth. Not only is there less African blood in Mexico than in the United States, in proportion to population, but there is less even after you have eliminated our black belt.

Many better informed persons refer to the native Mexicans as Indians, but they are not Indians—as we know Indians. True, here and there in the mountainous regions are found tribes of semi-savages who compare with the native peoples of what is now the United States. But they figure in national affairs little more than our own pureblood Cherokees, et. al., figure here. When the Spanish conqueror came the bulk of the aboriginal Mexicans were not savages, but a civilized people, as far removed from the wild nomads of North America as the white races themselves.

This aboriginal Mexican element is variously estimated as representing from one-third to one-half the population—by some guessers even more. It has furnished some of the most learned scholars and exalted patriots celebrated in Mexican history. The greater part of the remaining population is made up of mixed Spanish and aboriginal blood, from which is derived the term, "Spanish-American." It is to this mixture of European and Aztec that is attributed the peculiar traits of the "Spanish-American" character, and the supposedly woeful inferiority of our neighbors to the southward.

TO MEET AT DAWSON

Groups 1 and 2 of Kentucky Bankers There on May 18.

The joint meeting of Groups 1 and 2 of the Kentucky Bankers' association, which is to be held at Dawson Springs on May 18, will be an important one for the bankers of the western half of Kentucky. Not only will the bankers consider matters of direct interest to their own line of business, but they will discuss more general affairs, especially as relating to good roads and improved live stock and agricultural conditions, and their relation to the banks and the aid the latter should give. The program for the meeting has just been issued.

SHAKESPEARE UPHELD.

The Chicago circuit court decision which upheld the claim that Francis Bacon wrote the plays and other works attributed to William Shakespeare was vacated, it was announced after a meeting of judges of the tribunal. The decision was given by Judge Richard S. Tuthill in a suit brought by William N. Selig, a motion picture magnate, to restrain Col. George Fabyan and others from circulating a series of pamphlets upholding the claims of the sympathizers.
